

Dear Commissioners:

Please reconsider the notion of removing the TV-newspaper cross-ownership protections. Indeed, the current regulatory situation is already seriously lacking.

Regulations serve to protect the citizens from the excesses of the wealthy. And to preserve diversity in media ownership.

Unless you wish to become little more than a corporate clerk, I urge you to vote in the public interest to leave the current protections intact.

Through word-of-mouth, the public is aware of the actions of its governmental representatives. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Ken Kraska
